A Dramatic Incident In the Career of General de Gallifet.

It was on that fatal day, Sept. 1, 1870, that General de Gallifet distinguished himself by commanding the cavairy charges intended to clear the elevation at Illy, with the view of opening a passage toward Floing, where it was hoped the army might re-A steamship 420 feet long by 50 feet beam has been converted into a floating slaughter house and refrigerator by an English firm for use in Australia, to save inland shipping charges French cavairy.

General Ducrot then asked if they could renew the charge with what remained of the light cavalry and bussars and then Gallifet answered in the words that have become historic. "As often as you wish, general, as long as a man remains!" The second charge was not so successful as the first. Only a few men, with their general at their head, succeeded in pentrating the first ranks of the enemy. It is known that the king of Prussia. who was watching the battle from the top of the hill of Marfee, exclaimed with admiration, "Oh, les braves gens!" Just at this moment an astonishing event occurred in the midst of the battle. As Gallifet was returning with a few survivors, their horses for the most part wounded or foundered, he passed before the Nassau regiment. The Prussian officers ordered their men to cease fire and even struck up some of their guns. The French sa-luted and shouted, "Vive l'empereur." and the German officers acknowledged the salute, some of them applauding .-Westminster Gazette.

SCIENTIFIC FEEDING.

Health as a Primary Factor In Intelligent Living.

Health and success are so largely dependent upon balance, upon symmetry of development, physical and mental harmony, that we should do everything possible to secure that physical poise which also means mental and moral poise. A large part of our ills come from one sided development, caused by overstimulating some tissue cells and starving others-overfeeding and underfeeding. Scientific feeding, therefore, is of vast importan e.
